Conditional Admission for International Students-

Approved motion reads:

“Departments may offer conditional acceptance to students who do not meet the TOEFL requirement. The department will send a letter to Admissions in order to allow students to enter the U.S. on the condition that they will increase their TOEFL scores.”

Dr. Kennell said that some international students are not issued a visa if they only apply for language study and have no connections to Florida State. If they can show that they are conditionally admitted then they may be issued the I-20 visa.
